COMPLAINT – CIVIL ACTION
Jurisdiction and Venue

1. The jurisdiction of this court is based upon 15 U.S.C. § 1071 et. seq., in that Plaintiff Campo's Deli at Market, Inc. seeks an appeal from the above captioned final decision of the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board, dated August 7, 2012.

2. Jurisdiction over this cause of action is also proper before this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1338 as this civil action is a de novo appeal from the above captioned final decision of the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board and therefore arises under the Constitution and/or laws of the United States, and Title 15 of the United States Code in particular.

3. Venue is proper in this district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1391 in that Plaintiff's commercial activity is headquartered just three blocks east of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania at 214 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA, 19106, and the events giving rise to Plaintiff's claim for trademark registration take place in Philadelphia at its main brick and mortar store, as well as satellite locations at the Philadelphia Phillies stadium and Philadelphia Flyers and Sixers arena in South Philadelphia.

Parties and Procedural History

4. Plaintiff Campo's Deli at Market, Inc., is a duly incorporated, locally based Mom and Pop cheesesteak and hoagie shop, run by Mike and Denise Campo and their children, Mike and Mia, and is therefore a citizen of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which can be served with process at 214 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19106.

5. Defendant Kappos is the Director of the United States Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) at the above captioned address; on June 25, 2009, Plaintiff originally filed an application with the (PTO) for registration of Plaintiff's trademark, "Philadelphia's Cheesesteak."

6. The examining attorney for the PTO ultimately refused registration of the Plaintiff's trademark, and Plaintiff then timely filed an appeal to the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board on November 29, 2010.

7. Briefs were duly filed by undersigned counsel for the Plaintiff, and the Examining Attorney from the PTO, and an oral hearing was conducted before the Board in Alexandria, VA on March 29, 2012.

8. The Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (TTAB) issued its decision on August 7, 2012, and affirmed the PTO justifications for refusing Plaintiff's trademark under §2(d) and §2(e) of the Trademark Act (on the respective grounds of likelihood of confusion with previous marks and geographic refusal). (A true and correct copy of the TTAB decision is attached hereto and incorporated herein as Exhibit A).

9. However, the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board also reversed the PTO's refusal of Plaintiff's trademark under § 1 and § 45 of the Trademark Act (regarding sufficiency of evidence of trademark's use by Plaintiff in commerce).

10. Plaintiff therefore files this Complaint as a direct appeal from the final decision of the TTAB, which pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1071 et. seq. shall proceed de novo.

Facts

11. Plaintiff, Campo's Deli at Market, Inc., has a bona fide intention to use in commerce the trademark "Philadelphia's Cheesesteak" in the retail sale of cheesesteak sandwiches from its four (4) retail locations: its flagship store in Old City, Philadelphia; its' stands at Citizens Bank Park stadium (home of the Philadelphia Phillies baseball team) and the Wells Fargo Center (home of the Philadelphia Flyers hockey team and Philadelphia Sixers basketball team); and its' website located at <http://www.philadelphiascheesesteak.com>, where Plaintiff sells and ships its cheesesteak sandwiches around the country (and, indeed, the world).

12. Plaintiff has, in fact, been using said trademark in such fashion since at least January 1, 2009, and color photographs of Plaintiff's use of such trademark on the awnings outside of its stores and its satellite locations, as well as of its website itself, are available from undersigned counsel upon request, and in any case are a part of the record from the PTO and TTAB proceedings.

13. Plaintiff's use of the mark is strictly in accordance and association with its sale of Philadelphia Cheesesteak sandwiches, in a retail environment, for direct and immediate consumption of the same by the purchasing public.

14. Plaintiff's mark is, first and foremost, the description of a particular kind of sandwich of a particular quality or standard – a sandwich so superlative, it could only be called “Philadelphia's Cheesesteak.”

15. Plaintiff's mark is not, in any sense, then, an attempt to improperly control the phrase “Philadelphia Cheesesteak,” which is, by contrast, a generic term to describe a generic kind of sandwich.

16. The difference in the two phrases, of course, is an ('s) which demarcates a particular kind of gloriously gluttonous sandwich provided only by the Plaintiff – not just a Philadelphia Cheesesteak, but “Philadelphia's Cheesesteak.”

17. Plaintiff's mark is descriptive of the unique and tremendously delicious goods it offers for sale to the famished masses, and is not, by contrast, an indication of the geographic origin of the sandwich, which would otherwise prohibit registration.

18. For example, Plaintiff needs its mark so that in pursuing its franchising aspirations, the purchasing public will know that Plaintiff provides a particular kind of Philadelphia Cheesesteak, of such a tremendous quality, such a gustatory delight, and such a propensity for myocardial infarction that it could only be called “Philadelphia's Cheesesteak” – the very best example of what is otherwise a very common sandwich.

19. Plaintiff can use its mark at any store in any future location in the country, from Santa Monica, CA to Montauk, NY. In so doing, no customer at any such prospective location would be under the misconception that the sandwich purchased by the beach from a Campo's store is literally prepared in Philadelphia when, instead, it is prepared on location, at each such satellite location, over a steaming hot griddle directly in front of the consumer.

20. In the interest of full disclosure, the PTO has heretofore denied Plaintiff's registration on the grounds that there are three previously registered trademarks which the PTO believes are too similar to Plaintiff's mark, to wit:

- A) Registration no. 2053943, PHILADELPHIA'S CHEESESTEAK CO. with a design for ‘prepared foods, namely, meat’;
- B) Registration no. 2809682, PHILADELPHIA CHEESESTEAK CO. for ‘prepared foods, namely, meat’; and,
- C) Registration no. 2809683 THE ORIGINAL PHILADELPHIA CHEESESTEAK CO. for ‘prepared foods, namely, meat’.

21. As is immediately apparent, however, Plaintiff's mark and the cited marks are entirely different. The cited senior marks concern the identification of a particular company specializing in "prepared foods, namely, meat."
22. Indeed, the owner of the three cited marks is The Original Philadelphia Cheesesteak Co., which is a wholesale provider of raw, sliced ribeye for the use of cheesesteak retailers such as Plaintiff. (In fact, this company provides Plaintiff with the meat used in Plaintiff's sandwiches.) The cited marks concern the particular company itself.
23. Plaintiff's mark, by contrast, concerns not the identification of a company, but rather the identification of a particular kind of generic sandwich: not just a Philadelphia Cheesesteak, but "Philadelphia's Cheesesteak."
24. There is, accordingly, no likelihood of confusion between the requested trademark for a type of sandwich - "Philadelphia's Cheesesteak" - and three marks for a company which produces wholesale sliced meat. They have different products, different consumers, and entirely different avenues of commerce.
25. Moreover, although the PTO has also refused registration on the grounds that the use of the term "Philadelphia's" is impermissible, the PTO has previously approved the registration of such terms as "Philadelphia's Soft Rock Station" (Serial No. 7757098), "Philadelphia's Soft Rock" (Serial No. 77595820), "Philadelphia's Big League Sandwich" (Serial No. 78556197), and "Philadelphia's Home Town Builder" (Serial No. 74569180).

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff respectfully requests for a judgment declaring Plaintiff's trademark "Philadelphia's Cheesesteak" to be valid and fully enforceable, and an Order directing the Director of the Patent and Trademark Office to issue a registration for such trademark and to list the same on the Principal Register, plus any other relief this Court deems appropriate or may otherwise become necessary or evident at the time of trial.

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE

Trademark Trial and Appeal Board

In re Campo's Deli at Market, Inc.

Serial No. 77768687

J. Conor Corcoran for Campo's Deli at Market, Inc.

Evelyn Bradley, Trademark Examining Attorney, Law Office
105 (Thomas Howell, Managing Attorney).

Before Quinn, Shaw and Greenbaum, Administrative Trademark Judges.

Opinion by Greenbaum, Administrative Trademark Judge:

On June 25, 2009, Campo's Deli at Market, Inc. filed an application to register PHILADELPHIA'S CHEESESTEAK (in standard characters, CHEESESTEAK disclaimed) on the Principal Register for "sandwiches; sandwiches, namely, cheesesteaks" (in International Class 30). Applicant claims 2009 as its date of first use anywhere and in commerce.¹

¹ In its Request for Reconsideration, applicant filed an amendment to change the date of first use and first use in

Serial No. 77768687

The examining attorney refused registration on three grounds: (1) under Section 2(d) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1052(d), because applicant's mark, when applied to applicant's goods, so resembles three previously registered marks, , PHILADELPHIA CHEESESTEAK CO., and THE ORIGINAL PHILADELPHIA CHEESESTEAK CO. (the latter two in standard characters), for "prepared foods, namely, meat" (in International Class 29), and owned by the same entity, as to be likely to cause confusion;² (2) under Section 2(e)(2) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1052(e)(2), because the mark is primarily geographically descriptive of applicant's goods; and (3) the specimens of record do not show use of the mark for applicant's goods under Sections 1 and 45 of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1051 and 1127.

When the refusals were made final, applicant concurrently filed a request for reconsideration, which the commerce to January 1, 2009, but the examining attorney did not act on the amendment. In the event applicant ultimately prevails in any appeal, the application will be forwarded to the examining attorney for action on the amendment.

Serial No. 77768687

examining attorney denied, and an appeal of the final refusals. Applicant and the examining attorney filed briefs, and an oral hearing was held.

For the reasons discussed below, we affirm the refusals under Sections 2(d) and 2(e)(2) of the Trademark Act, and reverse the refusal under Sections 1 and 45 of the Trademark Act.

Before turning to the merits of the refusals, we note that applicant, in its appeal brief, listed the serial numbers and literal elements of four applications, now registrations, that were originally listed, among others, in response to the Section 2(e)(2) refusal in the initial Office action. Applicant never submitted copies of those registrations. This is not the proper way to make such applications and registrations of record.³ See In re Volvo Cars of North America Inc., 46 USPQ2d 1455 (TTAB 1998). See also In re Promo Ink, 78 USPQ2d 1301 (TTAB 2006) (submitting list of registrations is insufficient to make them of record). However, because the examining attorney, during prosecution, did not advise applicant of this procedural error at a point where applicant could have corrected the deficiency, the examining attorney's objection, raised for the first time in her appeal brief, is considered to be waived. In re Dist. of Columbia, 101 USPQ2d 1588, 1592 n.5 (TTAB 2012). Accordingly, we will consider the same list of registrations set out in applicant's brief "for whatever limited probative value such evidence may have." In re Broyhill Furniture Indus. Inc., 60 USPQ2d 1511, 1513, n.3 (TTAB 2011).

³ It is well-established that in order to make third-party registrations properly of record, "applicant should submit copies of the registrations themselves, or the electronic equivalent thereof" from the USPTO's electronic databases, now known as TARR or TESS. In re Broadway Chicken Inc., 38 USPQ2d 1559, 1560 n.6 (TTAB 1996) (citing In re Smith and Mehaffey, 31 USPQ2d 1531 (TTAB 1994)). Such submissions should be made prior to appeal or, if after appeal, pursuant to a remand of the matter to the examining attorney for further examination. Trademark Rule 2.142(d).

Serial No. 77768687

Likelihood of Confusion

The first issue in this appeal is likelihood of confusion, which requires us to consider the evidence in relation to the relevant factors set out in In re E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., 476 F.2d 1357, 177 USPQ 563, 567 (CCPA 1973). See also In re Majestic Distilling Co., 315 F.3d 1311, 65 USPQ2d 1201, 1203 (Fed. Cir. 2003) and Recot, Inc. v. Becton, 214 F.3d 1322, 54 USPQ2d 1894, 1896 (Fed. Cir. 2000). In considering the evidence of record on these factors, we must keep in mind that "[t]he fundamental inquiry mandated by § 2(d) goes to the cumulative effect of differences in the essential characteristics of the goods and differences in the marks." Federated Foods, Inc. v. Fort Howard Paper Co., 544 F.2d 1098, 192 USPQ 24, 29 (CCPA 1976).

The first factor concerns the similarities and dissimilarities of applicant's and registrant's marks. Under this factor, we look to see whether the marks, in their entireties, are similar in appearance, sound, connotation, and commercial impression. Palm Bay Imports Inc. v. Veuve Clicquot Ponsardin Maison Fondée En 1772, 396 F.3d 1369, 73 USPQ2d 1689, 1691-92 (Fed. Cir. 2005).

Applicant's mark is PHILADELPHIA'S CHEESESTEAK and registrant's marks are PHILADELPHIA CHEESESTEAK CO. and design, PHILADELPHIA CHEESESTEAK CO. (in standard characters), and THE ORIGINAL PHILADELPHIA CHEESESTEAK CO. (in standard characters). The marks are very similar in sound, appearance and meaning because they contain the same words: "PHILADELPHIA" and "CHEESESTEAK". The inclusion or omission in the marks of an apostrophe "s" is an insignificant difference that is used to denote possession, and does not alter the similarity of the commercial impression of applicant's mark to each of registrant's marks. In re Binion, 93 USPQ2d 1531, 1534 (TTAB 2009) ("The absence of the possessive form in applicant's mark BINION has little, if any, significance for consumers in distinguishing it from the cited mark.") (internal citations omitted).

Applicant argues that the marks are "entirely different", however, applicant does not argue that registrant's inclusion of the laudatory term "THE ORIGINAL" or the design of a cheesesteak in two of the cited marks differentiates those marks from applicant's in any meaningful way, and, indeed, they would not. App. Br. p. 4.

Instead, applicant contends that the presence of "CO." in the cited marks is the distinguishing feature. Specifically, applicant contends that "CO." identifies a particular company that is a wholesale provider of raw, sliced meat to cheesesteak retailers like applicant, while applicant's mark identifies a product, specifically, a cheesesteak sandwich. App. Br. pp. 4-5. However, applicant provided no evidence to support this contention. Moreover, "CO." is simply an entity designation with no source identifying capacity. See In re Wm. B. Coleman Co., 93 USPQ2d 2019 (TTAB 2009). Accordingly, this attempt to distinguish the marks in terms of meaning is not persuasive.

We conclude that applicant's and registrant's marks contain virtually identical terms, namely, "PHILADELPHIA'S CHEESESTEAK" and "PHILADELPHIA CHEESESTEAK," the marks sound and look similar, and their meanings and commercial impressions are also very similar. Therefore, despite some minor differences, the marks, in their entireties, are very similar, and we resolve this factor against applicant.

We now consider the relatedness of applicant's and registrant's goods, bearing in mind the goods as they are identified in the registrations and application. In re Elbaum, 211 USPQ 639, 640 (TTAB 1981). In this regard, we find the record created by the examining attorney establishes that registrant's "prepared foods, namely, meat" are closely related to applicant's "sandwiches; sandwiches, namely, cheesesteaks," and that both products may emanate from a single source. For example, the examining attorney submitted several use-based, third-party registrations which, in pertinent part, cover both types of goods: Registration No. 3064770 (fully-cooked, pre-portioned meat products, and meat sandwiches); Registration No. 3552603 (meats and sandwiches); Registration No. 3706470 (canned cooked meat, hot dogs and hot dog sandwiches); Registration No. 2774072 (meat, frozen and prepared entrees consisting primarily of meat, fish, poultry or vegetables, and sandwiches); and Registration No. 3259168 (meat, namely, ribs and steaks, and pita bread sandwiches). This evidence "serve[s] to suggest that such goods or services are of a type which may emanate from a single source." See In re Mucky Duck Mustard Co., 6 USPQ2d 1467, 1470 n. 6 (TTAB 1988), aff'd, 864 F.2d 149 (Fed. Cir. 1988). See also In re Albert Trostel & Sons Co., 29 USPQ2d 1783 (TTAB 1993).

The examining attorney also submitted internet evidence showing third-party websites touting their products, which include prepared meat and sandwiches, to demonstrate that these goods originate from a common source. For example, the June 1, 2011 final Office action

attached printouts for SCHWAN'S (steak and sandwiches)⁴ and LOWFAT LIFESTYLE (prepared meat and sandwiches),⁵ and the March 15, 2011 denial of applicant's Request for Reconsideration attached printouts for WENGER MEATS AND ICE (deli meat and sandwiches),⁶ DIPASCALE'S (lunch meats and sandwiches)⁷ and WASSLER'S MEAT MARKET (deli meat and sandwiches).⁸

Moreover, as the examining attorney aptly notes, sandwiches may contain prepared meat (Br. p. 8, unnumbered), and as applicant admits, applicant purchases from registrant the meat applicant uses in its own sandwiches. App. Br. p. 4.

Based on the record, we find that the goods are related, and resolve the du Pont factor regarding the similarity of the goods against applicant.

Applicant's arguments regarding the parties' actual trade channels are not relevant to our determination for registration. We must make our determination based on the goods as they are identified in the application and registrations, and not based on evidence of their actual use. Octocom Systems Inc. v. Houston Computer Services

Inc., 918 F.2d 937, 16 USPQ2d 1783, 1787 (Fed. Cir. 1987). (“[T]he question of registrability of an applicant’s mark must be decided on the basis of the identification of goods set forth in the application regardless of what the record may reveal as to the particular nature of an applicant’s goods, the particular channels of trade or the class of purchasers to which sales of the goods are directed.”). See also Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Packard Press Inc., 281 F.3d 1261, 62 USPQ2d 1001 (Fed. Cir. 2002).

Further, because there is no limitation regarding the trade channels for the parties’ goods, it is presumed that the goods move in all the normal channels of trade and are available to all potential customers, including retail and/or wholesale establishments.

We conclude that these goods are closely related, and the trade channels and purchasers of these products would overlap. As to the common purchasers, we have no evidence that the consumers of these goods would necessarily be sophisticated, so we consider this factor to be neutral.

Finally, while the cited marks are registered on the Supplemental Register or under the provisions of Section 2(f) of the Trademark Act, even “weak” or merely descriptive marks are entitled to protection against a subsequent user’s registration of a similar mark for closely related goods, and this protection extends to marks registered on the Supplemental Register. See, e.g., In re Clorox Co., 578

F.2d 337 (C.C.P.A. 1978); In re Hunke & Jocheim, 185 USPQ 188 (TTAB 1975).

In summary, when we consider the marks in their entireties, we conclude that they are more similar than they are different. See In re Chatam International Inc., 380 F.3d 1340, 71 USPQ2d 1944, 1946 (Fed. Cir. 2004). The goods are also closely related, and are presumed to move in similar trade channels to similar classes of purchasers. The factor related to sophistication of purchasers is deemed neutral. Under these circumstances, we conclude that confusion is likely. We add that to the extent that we have any doubts, we have resolved them, as we must, in favor of the prior registrant. In re Hyper Shoppes (Ohio), Inc., 837 F.2d 463, 6 USPQ2d 1025, 1026 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Pneumatiques, Caoutchouc Manufacture et Plastiques Kleber-Colombes, 487 F.2d 918, 179 USPQ 729, 729-30 (CCPA 1973).

The Section 2(d) refusal is affirmed.

Geographic Descriptiveness

We turn now to the refusal based on geographic descriptiveness. The test for determining whether a mark is primarily geographically descriptive is whether (1) the mark (or a portion thereof) is the name of a place known generally to the public, and (2) the public would make a goods/place association, that is, believe that the goods identified in the application originate in that place. See In re Societe Generale des Eaux Minerales de Vittel S.A.,

Serial No. 77768687

824 F.2d 957, 3 USPQ2d 1450 (Fed. Cir. 1987); In re Joint-Stock Co. "Baik", 80 USPQ2d 1305 (TTAB 2006); and In re JT Tobacconists, 59 USPQ2d 1080 (TTAB 2001). If the goods do in fact originate from the place named in the mark, the requisite goods/place association can be presumed. See In re Handler Fenton Westerns, Inc., 214 USPQ 848 (TTAB 1982).

We find, first, that the word "PHILADELPHIA'S" in applicant's mark is the possessive form of the name of a place known generally to the American public, i.e., the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Philadelphia is defined as "the largest city of Pennsylvania, in the southeast part of the state on the Delaware River."⁹ The primary significance of Philadelphia to the American purchasing public thus is a known geographic area. Further, there is nothing in the record to suggest that Philadelphia is either obscure or remote. Cf. In re Societe Generale des Eaux Minerales de Vittel S.A., 3 USPQ2d at 1451.

Next, we find that the term "CHEESESTEAK" in applicant's mark is at least highly descriptive (if not generic) of applicant's "sandwiches; sandwiches, namely, cheesesteaks." Applicant does not contest this point, and, in fact, has disclaimed "CHEESESTEAK" apart from the mark as shown.

We next turn to the question of whether applicant's mark, PHILADELPHIA'S CHEESESTEAK, is primarily geographically descriptive. "Under the first prong of the test - whether the mark's primary significance is a generally known geographic location - a composite mark such as applicant's proposed mark must be evaluated as a whole... It is not erroneous, however, for the examiner to consider the significance of each element within the composite mark in the course of evaluating the mark as a whole." In re Save Venice New York Inc., 259 F.3d 1346, 59 USPQ2d 1778, 1782 (Fed. Cir. 2001) [internal citations omitted]. In this connection, it is well settled that "the presence of generic or highly descriptive terms in a mark which also contains a primarily geographically descriptive term does not serve to detract from the primary significance of the mark as a whole." In re JT Tobacconists, 59 USPQ2d at 1082. See also In re Bacardi & Co. Ltd., 49 USPQ2d 1301 (TTAB 1997).

For the reasons set forth above, we find that the word "PHILADLEPHIA'S" in applicant's mark is a reference to a well-known geographic place, and that the term "CHEESESTEAK" is at least highly descriptive of applicant's goods. We further find that the presence of the highly descriptive term "CHEESESTEAK" in applicant's mark does not detract from the primary geographical significance of the mark as a whole. See In re Save Venice New York Inc., 59 USPQ2d 1778 (Fed. Cir. 2001); and In re Wada, 194 F.3d 1297, 52 USPQ2d 1539 (Fed. Cir. 1999).

⁹ <http://education.yahoo.com/reference/dictionary/entry/Philadelphia>

Serial No. 77768687

In sum, we find under the first prong of the Section 2(e)(2) test that the primary significance of applicant's mark is that of a well-known geographic place, i.e., the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

We next turn to the second prong of the test, i.e., whether purchasers would make a goods/place association between applicant's goods and the place named in the mark. Applicant acknowledges that it is located in Philadelphia. Additionally, in response to the first and final Office actions, and in its brief, applicant states that the specimens of record are photographs of its booth at the Philadelphia Phillies' baseball stadium and of its store on Market Street in Philadelphia. App. Br. p. 9.

Applicant nonetheless asserts that its mark is not primarily geographically descriptive. Instead, applicant likens its mark to "Boston baked beans," "Swiss cheese," and "Italian spaghetti," arguing that its use of PHILADELPHIA'S designates a kind or type of sandwich that is available nationwide, and that no cheesesteak purchaser would believe that the cheesesteak came from anywhere other than where it was purchased. App. Br. pp. 7-8.

However, applicant's use of the possessive noun "PHILADELPHIA'S" in the composite mark PHILADELPHIA'S CHEESESTEAK underscores the geographic significance of the mark, namely, that applicant's cheesesteak is of, or from, Philadelphia.

09/23/2009 10:42:44 AM, attached to September 30, 2009 Office action.

Serial No. 77768687

Applicant further argues that the apostrophe "s" in "PHILADELPHIA'S" signifies quality. However, applicant presents no evidence in support of this statement, which is simply conjecture. Even if applicant were to establish that "PHILADELPHIA'S" connotes quality in certain circumstances, this implication would be secondary to the primary significance of "PHILADELPHIA'S" as a geographic indicator. See In re Monograms America, Inc., 51 USPQ2d 1317 (TTAB 1999) and cases cited therein.

As noted above, applicant's flagship store and applicant's second location at the Philadelphia Phillies baseball stadium are both located in Philadelphia. As a result, we find that applicant's goods originate in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and we may presume that purchasers would make a goods/place association between applicant's goods and Philadelphia, a geographic location that is neither obscure nor remote. In re Chalk's International Airlines Inc., 21 USPQ2d 1637 (TTAB 1991); and In re California Pizza Kitchen Inc., 10 USPQ2d 1704 (TTAB 1988). Further, applicant has not presented sufficient evidence to rebut this presumption of a goods/place association.

Finally, applicant's listing of third-party registrations is not evidence that the subject marks are in use or that the relevant purchasing public is familiar with them. See, e.g., AMF Inc. v. American Leisure Products, Inc., 474 F.2d 1403, 177 USPQ 268, 269 (CCPA 1973); and In re Hub Distributing, Inc., 218 USPQ 284, 285 (TTAB 1983). Moreover, we must determine each case on its own merits, and nothing in this record indicates the reasons, or with what statutory limitations, those third-party registrations were allowed. See, e.g., In re Nett Designs Inc., 236 F.3d 1339, 57 USPQ2d 1564, 1566 (TTAB 1991). Accordingly, the third-party registrations have limited probative value.

We have considered all of the arguments and evidence made of record by applicant and the examining attorney, including any arguments and evidence not specifically discussed herein. We find that applicant's mark, PHILADELPHIA'S CHEESESTEAK, identifies a well-known geographic location, and that purchasers would make a goods/place association between applicant's goods (cheesesteaks) and the place named in the mark (Philadelphia). Because both elements of the Section 2(e)(2) refusal have been established, we find that the examining attorney has established, prima facie, that applicant's mark is primarily geographically descriptive of applicant's goods. Applicant's arguments and evidence to the contrary are not persuasive.

The Section 2(e)(2) refusal is affirmed.

Specimens

Finally, we turn to the refusal to register under Sections 1 and 45 of the Trademark Act on the ground that applicant's specimens do not support use of the mark for the identified goods.

Section 45 of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1127 permits registration of a mark when the specimens evidence use on goods in commerce and "when it is placed in any manner . . . on the displays associated therewith . . . and the goods are sold or transported in commerce."

As specimens of use, applicant submitted, among other things, several photographs demonstrating use of PHILADELPHIA'S CHEESESTEAK in displays and advertising in connection with the sale of applicant's cheesesteaks at specific points of sale. In particular, the record includes a photograph of applicant's satellite location at the Philadelphia Phillies' baseball stadium, Citizens Bank Park, where applicant's trademark is clearly visible on applicant's sign, and the menu lists "cheese steaks" as one of applicant's "specialties" on the menu on the wall behind the counter:

The examining attorney rejected all of the specimens, arguing that they comprise advertising material or pictures of a restaurant, which are inappropriate specimens for applicant's goods. Br. pp. 20-24 (unnumbered). We disagree, and find instead that the specimen above is acceptable because it is a point-of-sale display associated with the goods, "designed to catch the attention of purchasers and prospective purchasers as an inducement to consummate a sale and which prominently display[s] the mark in question and associate[s] it or relate[s] it to the goods in such a way that an association of the two is inevitable. . . ." In re Bright of America, Inc., 205 USPQ 63, 71 (TTAB 1979). See also In re Marriott Corp., 459 F.2d 525, 173 USPQ 799, 800 (CCPA 1972) (menu held an acceptable "display" because the mark appeared on the menu in close proximity to an illustration and/or description of the particular sandwich identified by the mark).

The refusal under Sections 1 and 45 is reversed.

Decision: The refusals under Sections 2(d) and 2(e)(2) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1052(d) and (e)(2) are affirmed, and the refusal under Sections 1 and 45 of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1051 and 1127 is reversed.¹⁰

¹⁰ As discussed in footnote 1, in the event applicant ultimately prevails in any appeal, the application will be forwarded to the examining attorney for action on the amendment.
